

24 HOUR GEEKATHON

Win 24 hours web support with Employ a Geek

Your charity / community group has the chance to win 24 hours web-based support thanks to new business start-up, Employ a Geek.

The brainchild of Redfuse's Mark Grice and MPAD's Mark Picken, Employ a Geek has a database of proven and experienced programmers and developers on hand to support your organisation's web needs.

To herald Employ a Geek's arrival the team is hosting a 24 hour geekathon where one local charity / community will win a full day's geek support.

During the project, which starts at 6pm on Friday 10th February and finishes at 6pm on Friday 11th February, the winning organisation will get a new web-based product to help their organisation. In order to qualify for the draw we are looking for small charities or community groups (with a turnover of less than £500,000 per year).

Applications, which can be found at www.employageek.co.uk/geekathon, are open until Thursday 2nd February when the draw will be made.

One lucky organisation will then be drawn from a hat to receive 24 hours support from Employ a Geek and our band of merry programmers and web developers. Sign up now to get your geeks on board.

For more information on Employ a Geek please visit

www.employageek.co.uk

develop your business
employ a geek

Criteria for entry:

- Your organisation turnovers less than £500,000 per year
- You will be available during the 24 hour period from 6pm Friday 10th February to 6pm Saturday 11th February. This will include being at the start and finish, as well as being available on email / telephone to sign off work during the event
- If selected in the draw on Friday 3rd February you will be able to provide Employ a Geek with marketing information, copy, logos / branding and imagery by Wednesday 8th February.